Sword of the Spirit

“Therefore take the whole armor of God,
that you may be able to withstand in the evil day,
and having done all, to stand . . .
taking the shield of faith, with which you can quench
all the flaming darts of the evil one. . . .
and the sword of the Spirit,
which is the word of God.”

PREFACE

Pope St. John Paul II taught about how to pray the Rosary in his apostolic exhortation, Rosarium Virginis Mariae. In particular, he recommended the scriptural Rosary:

Listening to the word of God

In order to supply a Biblical foundation and greater depth to our meditation, it is helpful to follow the announcement of the mystery with the proclamation of a related Biblical passage, long or short, depending on the circumstances. No other words can ever match the efficacy of the inspired word. As we listen, we are certain that this is the word of God, spoken for today and spoken “for me”.

If received in this way, the word of God can become part of the Rosary's methodology of repetition without giving rise to the ennui derived from the simple recollection of something already well known. It is not a matter of recalling information but of allowing God to speak. (#30)

Pope Benedict XVI echoed this emphasis on the value of Sacred Scripture for praying the Rosary during his visit to Pompeii, Bl. Bartolo Longo's shrine of Our Lady of the Rosary:

If Christian contemplation cannot leave the Word of God out of consideration, if it is to be a contemplative prayer, the Rosary must always emerge from the silence of the heart as a response to the Word, after the model of Mary's prayer. Seen clearly, the Rosary is completely interwoven with scriptural elements. First of all there is the enunciation of the mystery, preferably made, as it has been today, with words taken from the Bible.

Accordingly, this booklet features short passages from Sacred Scripture for each decade of the Rosary. Each column organizes a set by drawing from a book of the Bible or by a theme which guided the choice of passages for each mystery. May Our Lady of the Rosary, the Eternal Queen of Heaven, smile upon our efforts to enrich our prayer of her Rosary with listening to Word of God inspired by the Holy Spirit, her mystical spouse.
